The Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) was established by statute in 1945. The Chairman of the Council of twelve members, appointed by the State President from amongst eminent scientists and industrialists, is also the full-time Executive President of the organization. The Council reports to a Cabinet Minister designated by the State President (at present the Minister of Trade and Industry).

The organization is administered by an Executive consisting of the President and six Deputy Presidents to whom the Chief Directors of Institutes and heads of other organizational units report.
